U.S. World War II Draft Registration Cards, 1942

Name:	Paul Cook Russie
Birth Date:	18 Feb 1879
RESIDENCE:	Lycoming, Pennsylvania
Birth:	Roselle, New Jersey
Roll:	WW2_2139685
	Note regarding the images for the states of PA, MD, WV, and DE. These four states were scanned at the National Archives facility in such a way that the back of one person's draft card appears on the same image as the front of the next individual. The result is that when you click to view the original image, you will see the correct front side of the draft card, but the back of the previous soldier's card. Ancestry is aware of this problem, and is working to correct this issue.

A BIGGER AND BETTER FAIR!

Shelby Woma

By John W. Lynch

Late in the month of November, in the year 1834, a dusty little wagon caravan lumbered into Shelbyville, thriving community of the Mexican province of Texas, and a stocky, open-faced man climbed down from the tired horse that had paced the long, arduous way from Tennessee.

"I reckon we're heah," he drawled. "Hand me th' baby, Charlotta, while you climb down."

The transfer was made and a pale, girl-mother joined her husband in the dusty road, while from the rear of the wagon appeared a robust youth holding another infant in waddling clothes, and behind him came a smaller boy and a girl.

Seven pioneering souls they were—sturdy, rugged, undaunted in the face of rigorous winters, hostile savages, imposing mountains and impenetrable forests, and strict Mexican immigration laws raised against white settlers following Stehad to be, for twenty-three children were to later call this indomitable patriot "pa," as was wont in those days. So the new home became popular over the countryside, and there wasn't a better host or hostess from Nacogdoches to San Felipe De Austin than "the Webbs."

Anthony, Jeff and Sarah were grown now and Elvina and Celina were approaching their teens. A nameless babe slept back in Tennessee, in an unmarked grave, but the others came on—it seemed that Charlotta Brown Webb was always having a baby. But they loved their babies and they wanted a full and happy home.

The year 1845 came and passed. Texas was a state now, a member of the Union—the great indivisible Union that had glowed before the eyes of Meredith and Charlotta Webb even during their "courting" days in Tenessee.

For the first time in Texas, death came to the Webb home, was past and with it the hopes of the Southland. Chickamauga, and Wilderness, and Antietam and Chancellorsville all marked the downward slump of Lee's courageous "thin gray line."

Celina saw that her husband's face was more haggard and his visits home less frequent than before, and her womanly intuition soon devined the cause: men were scarce and every John Hamm was needed at the front, regardless of the aching hearts at home.

Then came Appomattox and Lee's surrender to General Grant on April 9th, 1865. At the very minute he was proffering his sword to have it gallantly refused by the officer in Blue, Celina Hamm was crying her eyes out, for she knew that the end was near and that her husband, though back with her, would never be the same. He took the war too hard. He was too wrapped up in the Confederate cause.

John Hamm came home a had been 25 years before.

The years sped by and happiness and sorrow intermingled to fill out the married lives of Celina and Andrew. Death came to the husband in 1914, Celina, now 80, buried her mate at Salem and, unable to bear the scenes of that once-happy place any longer, she moved to the home of her daughter, Betty, who was now married to Jodie W. Wheeler, a well known Shelby County farmer.

Still stri[illegible] appearance and active [illegible] beyond her years, this [illegible]ughter of the Republic [illegible] about to raise another bro[illegible] of youngsters, these being her daughter's, whom she loved as her very own. She still made the best apple tarts from Salem to Mississippi and her wit and intellect were well known everywhere in this region.

Until the age of ninety-five, in 1929, this remarkable woman, of a day and age this world will never see the like of again, was as active as

Donald, who had been the daughter of a prominent planter named Carroll. Jeff Webb had died at the age of 30, leaving four children, and Anthony and Sarah survived at the old home.

James Webb, who was the son of Ellen Tamm Webb, was now well on the road to manhood, and he paid many visits to the home of his half-sister, Celia Butts, at Salem.

In 1883 the old Roman, Meredith Webb, was finally struck down and his death occurred soon after at the age of 88. His passing was universally mourned in East Texas, and he was buried amid impressive surroundings in the old Methodist Church cemetery at Center where the county seat had long since been moved. He had pronounced his blessing on Captain Bob Parker, his friend and neighbor.

By this time Celina Butts was perhaps the best known woman in this section. Her husband, Andrew Butts, was widely known and respected, too, and their daughter, Betty, was fast growing into the beauty that her famous mother

In a few moments we stood spellbound in amazement, McKee and I, as we beheld this celebrated woman who has spent all but six weeks of her one hundred years upon the soil of Shelby County. Her sight has almost failed and her hearing is dimmed, but her mind is as clear as the picture she summons up of the glorious past.

With sublime goodness and patience she posed for our pictures, and her good humor lasted through all of our blundering stupidity. She hugged James W. Webb and called him "Jim." Her hands clapped together and she eviphen F. Austin's colonization foray back in 1822.

"Yo' all wait here, Honey, while I look up some friendly home we kin make th' night in." The husband returned the baby to the shivering mother and strode away in the gathering gloom.

"Bring Elvina to me; Anthony," the mother commanded, and soon her loving arm held both of her twin daughters, Elvina and Celina, six-weeks old natives of the proud state of Tennessee.

Meredith Webb found warm hospitality awaiting him in the village and the little group was soon sheltered in the home of some kindly pioneer who remembered only too well the culmination of his own pilgrimage a few years before.

Early the next morning money changed hands and Meredith Webb became the owner of a headright near the heart of Shelbyville. Scores of settlers drove in that day to see the new arrivals and to learn the belated news from and it took the loyal, tender mother away. Torn by his wife's passing and realizing that his children needed a woman's care, Meredith Webb immediately began to "pay attention" to a bevy of likeable belles who figured in the social life of Shelbyville.

Fate drew Meredith Webb to pretty Becky Snyder as surely as the sun draws water and they were soon married after a whirlwind courtship that fairly took the breath of all the settlers. More children were born ot this union and the Webb home became more than ever a gathering place for the countryside.

Success and material wealth came in new measures to Meredith Webb, but sorrow was fast upon them. Gripped by sudden illness, his new bride of a few years died, and once more the sturdy father was faced with finding a maternal hand for his young. This time he married another pretty woman, though more mature, and she proved to be the blessing of his life.

west from his father's plantation in Louisiana.

John Hamm burned up the trail between Shelbyvile and old East Hamilton that spring and the next fall he won his heart's desire. They were married with the blessings of Meredith Webb, an the groom took his fair bride to the new home he had built at Salem, a new community located on the line between Shelby and San Augustine counties. Hamm's home was on the Shelby county side.

Celina set out to make her marriage a success from the first. Her training in Meredith Webb's home had prepared her well and she soon became one of the finest cooks in the territory. Her apple tarts were renowned clear to Mississippi; one traveller even vowed he had heard tell of them in Mobile and Savannah, but Celina always threatened him with a carving knife at this spech and declared he only said it to get another helping of them.

Shadows were falling fast upon the Southland, and the long arm of unrest reached "I'm going to war."

And Celina, the thoroughbred that she was, with the blood of Meredith Webb pounding at her own temples, clutched her child and bit her lips until the blood came. Her eyes were dry and her voice steady as she faced her husband.

"Yes, John, I know. You're going to war."

Many a home in the Southland was sad, but Celina tried to make her's as industrious and happy as possible with John gone to fight for Lee and the Confederacy

The days were not all dark, for there were times when the thunder of a horse's hoofs could be heard and a man's deep breathing as spurs tinkled and John Hamm walked in with a broad smile, all military-like and handsome in his gray uniform and black boots. Sometimes he rode for days without rest, and many times without food, to spend a few precious minutes with his wife and baby; then he would bid goodbye and dash off again to join his command.

The first battle of Bull Run

John Hamm came home a different man and his death soon followed. Celina bore up remarkably and devoted all of her attention to her six children. She saw that her farm was going to ruin without a man's hand and it was with relief that she turned to her second lover, a fine man from Alabama, Andrew Butts.

From early childhood, Celina had been a Methodist, but she now took the faith of Andrew Butts and joined the Salem Baptist Church where she was to worship for sixty-eight years.

The farm prospered again in spite of the rigors of Reconstruction and Celina was happy when a daughter was born. The child was named Betty and she was born on the 30th day of October, 1875, when Celina was just a few days past her own forty-first birthday.

In the meantime, Meredith Webb had buried Ellen Tamm Webb and the aged settler had married his fourth and last wife, Mrs. Caroline McDonald, who had been the of again, was as active as any housewife in her forties. She finally gave way reluctantly to the advance of a ripe old age and her cares and duties were lessened by her loving daughter.

Today this daughter of Republic has just celebrate her 100th birthday anniversary on October 11th, 193 Present at the celebration w James Webb, the son of Ellen Tamm and Meredith Webb, who is now in his fourteenth year as nightwatchman at Center and who will celebrate his own 64th birthday on January 15th, 1935. Also there were Mrs. James Webb and Mack Webb, a younger brother, who resides on the Arcadia Road.

Just a few days before the red-letter birthday for this woman who is the oldest person living in Shelby County, the writer, accompanied by Paul McKee, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Webb and Mack Webb, visited the Jodie Wheeler home below Shelbyville. We had a camera along, and as we drov- up to the house, row that beset this young girl girl as she saw her mother lowered into the grave at the cemetery in Shelbyville, and we can imagine the stern-jawed girl who rode back home to find herself the head of the motherless home.

When Meredith Webb married Becky Snyder, Celina's responsibilities were lightened and she soon began to go to the parties and dances that were held all over the Shelbyville country almost every Friday ngiht. Her charm and beauty captivated the settlers and Celina Webb was the toast of a hundred beau-gests who worshipped at her feet.

At the age of twenty, Celina was radiantly beautiful. Small of stature, she was probably a bare four feet nine or ten, but her burnished gold hair and her laughing blue-gray eyes sent many a gallant's heart to pounding. Especially did the gallant heart of young John Hamm skip a beat when he laid eyes upon her first. He met her and received her permission to call on his next trip west from his father's plantaeven the home of Celina and John Hamm. At evening time, sweaty, gnarled farmers would tramp to the Hamm home and Celina, who would sit nearby sewing and cutting tiny garments, began to listen to their talk about "abolition," and "secession" and 'that Yankee named Lnicoln."

Like rising thunder and sharp lightning before a storm, the strong resentment set the simple farmers around Salem afire with indignant restlessness, and booming cannons at Fort Moultrie and Fort Sumter were echoed by the fierce shouts that arose throughout East Texas. It was war. The Carolinas were embroiled, Virginia was smouldering, and a fiery Southerner, Jefferson Davis, was being joined by old West Pointers such as Lee, and by smart horsemen and campaigners like Jackson and Stuart.

One day John Hamm came home to his wife and newborn babe with tears in his eyes.

"Celina," he said solemnly. "I'm going to war."

Tennessee, from Alabama, from Georgia and even from as far away as the Carolinas.

On the second day ringing axes and hoarse shouts echoed throughout the village and almost in a twinkling many willing hands had fashioned and outfitted a crude log cabin-home in the style of that far-distant era. Then Meredith and Carlotta Brown Webb gave a party for all the friendly workers and their families. Smoking venison and wild turkey fairly tested the strength of boarded tables and cider flowed through the veins of the hardy company.

Seven years passed. Shelbyville grew and residents began to complain about "crowded conditions" and "too many outsiders." One by one the wealthier families moved farther away, and Meredith Webb chose to build his new home out on the dim trail leading due north toward a country that everyone agreed would "someday be something."

This time the Webb home was more commodious, and it

Ellen Tamm was a frugal housewife and a good manager. She ran the plantation, for such it had grown to be, in fine style, and the years of plenty increased. Along this time, however, the first rumblings of silent Southern planters began to make themselves heard. Slaves were essential to the cotton planter and the Northern statesmen frowned on this condition and demanded that the Southerners free the negroes and then reemploy them as individuals.

On January 15, 1870, a son was born to Ellen and Meredith Webb, and they named this new arrival James. He was a half-brother to Celina, one of the twins born to Charlotta Webb. And we'll leave James and his mother and father at this juncture to take up the heroine of our story, Celina Webb, "a daughter of the Republic."

We already know how Celina, at six weeks old, was handed down to her father by Charlotta Webb upon their arrival at Shelbyville. We can picture in our minds the sor-

THE HISTORY OF NATHANIEL RICHARD MARTIN

In London, England, between 1755 and 1760, a baby in a basket was left on the doorstep of an English Lord whose name was Martin. This Martin family kept the child, legally adopted him and named him Nathaniel. Nathaniel grew to manhood and joined the British Army. Because of an offense to his commanding officer, his superior slapped him in the face. That night, in his bunk, he told his closest friend, named Issac Horton, of the unhappy event that had occurred between him and his commanding officer. He told his friend that he was planning to escape to America. Together, they escaped to Issac Horton mother's home. She tried to convince them to not to carry out these rash plans, but they stowed away on the next ship for America. After three days, they became to thirsty to hide any longer.

The captain brought them to America where they joined the colonial army.(some records say they jumped ship and swam to shore) They wanted to be on hand to fight the redcoats. One record states that Nathaniel was wounded at the Battle of Trenton and was captured by the redcoats. Another record states that Nathaniel and Horton's division fought until their supply of powder gave out after which they were captured. This record states that they were not released until 1786. They may have been present at the Battle of Yorktown. They were probably in the battle of Breeds Hill.

After their release, they lived in Virginia for awhile before going westward. Issac Horton married a woman named Hanah, but no record survives about Nathaniel's wife. The two families remained friends for the rest of Nathaniel and Issac's lives. There have been various inter-marriages between the two families through the years to today.

While searching the Internet assisting a Horton Family Member, I stumbled upon the following story. I believe the Issac Horton in the following story may be the same man described above:

I have this entire line pretty much done--with lots of help from some of the huge bunch of descendants in Searcy County,AR where Issac's sons (many of them) moved from Wayne Co,TN. Searcy Co,AR has one of the most active family research groups I have ever encountered. It helps that they are all cousins & have been their even before (although some came after) the Civil War. The Wayne Co,TN Horton's were all Union Army, those in Searcy refused to fight for the Confederacy and many were members of the famous 'chain gang'--a group of Searcy men who were taken by Union troops to see their General in logging chains--walking the entire distance. When the General told them they would be set free if they would join the Confederate Army, and drew a line & asked them to step over it to volunteer, not one man from Searcy did. They told him to just go ahead and hang them.(he didn't)....This Issac Horton who married Hannah Farris(Faries) of PA, she was the mother of all his children although he married a 2nd time to a much younger lady in Wayne Co,TN after Hannah died there & this 2nd wife got a pension from Issac's Rev. War service after his death on 28 February 1855 in Wayne Co--Issac was born 12 May 1759 in England, possibly London. He and a young friend (Nathaniel Richard Martin?) were afraid of being impressed to serve in the British Navy, so they stowed away on a merchant ship bound for Massachusetts. Issac was said to have been about 13 or 14 years old. They were discovered after several days, but the Captain was kind & told them if they would work hard for their passage he would be fair to them. When the ship got to MA, the Captain called the boys in and told them they had worked hard and were good boys. He gave each of them a hogshead of sugar to get them started in America. When the Rev War started Issac Horton fought for the Americans--he joined the Army in Marshfield,MA & served as a boat Ferrier --He left pension & military papers. He is not, I don't think, related to the Barnabus Horton & brothers group who arrived much, much earlier & who settled in Long Island, some going on to PA, which is what my Horton ancestor Abraham Horton b.1722 in Springfield,MA son of John Horton born,about 1696, whose father John Horton was born in Springfield,MA in 1672, a son of Jeremiah Horton & his wife Mary Wright. Jeremiah is said to be connected to the extremely complicated Barnabus line.....My Abraham Horton b.1722 went on to Bucks Co, PA where he married the Quaker Martha Brissell, only child of her parents, and they moved after the births of several of their sons, to North Carolina where they were members of the New Garden Meeting --they lived until their deaths in Surry Co,NC-Tom's River & several of their sons were written out of the Quaker meeting for serving in the Rev War (American side). Three of them went into South Carolina, & eastern TN after the war--later 2 of them ended up in Georgia & later Alabama where descendants remain to the present.
I first believed your Issac Horton born in London England was of this same family, but after gathering all the MA information I do no believe they were related. It is striking how similar the given names in both families were & how close your Issac & my Uncle Issac Horton ended up-- yours in Wayne Co,TN, mine in northern Alabama just across the border from Wayne Co,TN. Contact Searcy County,AR researchers for more information on Issac's line---they've got a lot & a lot of it is published. They have a get-together every year in Searcy....along with many other line researchers. Good luck, your Issac was a fascinating man & so were his descendants.

When the General told them they would be set free if they would join the Confederate Army, and drew a line & asked them to step over it to volunteer, not one man from Searcy did. They told him to just go ahead and hang them.(he didn't)....This Issac Horton who married Hannah Farris(Faries) of PA, she was the mother of all his children although he married a 2nd time to a much younger lady in Wayne Co,TN after Hannah died there & this 2nd wife got a pension from Issac's Rev. War service after his death on 28 February 1855 in Wayne Co--Issac was born 12 May 1759 in England, possibly London. He and a young friend (Nathaniel Richard Martin?) were afraid of being impressed to serve in the British Navy, so they stowed away on a merchant ship bound for Massachusetts. Issac was said to have been about 13 or 14 years old. They were discovered after several days, but the Captain was kind & told them if they would work hard for their passage he would be fair to them. When the ship got to MA, the Captain called the boys in and told them they had worked hard and were good boys. He gave each of them a hogshead of sugar to get them started in America. When the Rev War started Issac Horton fought for the Americans--he joined the Army in Marshfield,MA & served as a boat Ferrier --He left pension & military papers. He is not, I don't think, related to the Barnabus Horton & brothers group who arrived much, much earlier & who settled in Long Island, some going on to PA, which is what my Horton ancestor Abraham Horton b.1722 in Springfield,MA son of John Horton born,about 1696, whose father John Horton was born in Springfield,MA in 1672, a son of Jeremiah Horton & his wife Mary Wright. Jeremiah is said to be connected to the extremely complicated Barnabus line.....My Abraham Horton b.1722 went on to Bucks Co, PA where he married the Quaker Martha Brissell, only child of her parents, and they moved after the births of several of their sons, to North Carolina where they were members of the New Garden Meeting --they lived until their deaths in Surry Co,NC-Tom's River & several of their sons were written out of the Quaker meeting for serving in the Rev War (American side). Three of them went into South Carolina, & eastern TN after the war--later 2 of them ended up in Georgia & later Alabama where descendants remain to the present.
I first believed your Issac Horton born in London England was of this same family, but after gathering all the MA information I do no believe they were related. It is striking how similar the given names in both families were & how close your Issac & my Uncle Issac Horton ended up-- yours in Wayne Co,TN, mine in northern Alabama just across the border from Wayne Co,TN. Contact Searcy County,AR researchers for more information on Issac's line---they've got a lot & a lot of it is published. They have a get-together every year in Searcy....along with many other line researchers. Good luck, your Issac was a fascinating man & so were his descendants.

THE HISTORY OF NATHANIEL RICHARD MARTIN

In London, England, between 1755 and 1760, a baby in a basket was left on the doorstep of an English Lord whose name was Martin. This Martin family kept the child, legally adopted him and named him Nathaniel. Nathaniel grew to manhood and joined the British Army. Because of an offense to his commanding officer, his superior slapped him in the face. That night, in his bunk, he told his closest friend, named Issac Horton, of the unhappy event that had occurred between him and his commanding officer. He told his friend that he was planning to escape to America. Together, they escaped to Issac Horton mother's home. She tried to convince them to not to carry out these rash plans, but they stowed away on the next ship for America. After three days, they became to thirsty to hide any longer.

The captain brought them to America where they joined the colonial army.(some records say they jumped ship and swam to shore) They wanted to be on hand to fight the redcoats. One record states that Nathaniel was wounded at the Battle of Trenton and was captured by the redcoats. Another record states that Nathaniel and Horton's division fought until their supply of powder gave out after which they were captured. This record states that they were not released until 1786. They may have been present at the Battle of Yorktown. They were probably in the battle of Breeds Hill.

After their release, they lived in Virginia for awhile before going westward. Issac Horton married a woman named Hanah, but no record survives about Nathaniel's wife. The two families remained friends for the rest of Nathaniel and Issac's lives. There have been various inter-marriages between the two families through the years to today.

I have this entire line pretty much done--with lots of help from some of the huge bunch of descendants in Searcy County,AR where Issac's sons (many of them) moved from Wayne Co,TN. William Bonner family history submitted by smithcodeman

Added by smithcodeman on 20 Dec 2007

"The records reveal that William Bonner,Jr., was born in 1776 in Hampshire County,30 and died December 13, 1857, in Blackfork District, Tucker County. After rearing his family in Hardy County he transferred his residence to the Cheat River Valley, and built a mill where the town of Parsons now stands. Here he resided till burdened with old age when he moved to the "Surveys" along the Dry Fork, Tucker County. At his home, there, he passed away in his eighty-first year. His grandson, with whom the author talked, had a vivid memory of his grandfather. He described him as being stocky in stature, reserved, voice low and positive, and opinions well considered and fundemental.

William Bonner married Jamima Carr (Karr), daughter of John Carr.31 Their marriage was perfomed in Randolph County on November 11, 1802, by Robert Maxwell. They reared a family of ten children whose names and birth years were as follows:

Katherine(Kitty), 1810; Ann, 1812; Hannah, 1813; Samuel, 1814; Hettie, 1817; Phoebe, 1820; Archibald, 1822; Solomon, 1824; William, 1829."

Footnotes 30 & 31.

"30. Hardy County was not formed till 1786.

31. The Carr family is of German descent. George Carr (Karr) arrived in Philadelphia from Germany, November 8, 1752. The children of Enoch and Christiene Carr were John, Abner, Martha, Elizabeth, Sarah, Solomon, Hannah, Edmond, and Jamima."
